ZEPPELIN BATTLES OCEAN STORMS

CRAFT WILL REACH L. A. TUESDAY

The Graf Zeppelin, speeding eastward over the Pacific ocean should pass over the city of Richmond Monday night or early Tuesday morning on its journey to Los Angeles, according to the speed now being maintained by the ship.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—UP—Over the Great Circle course on the first attempt ever made to span the Pacific Ocean by non-stop flight the Graf Zeppelin floated tonight while its motors drove it forward in a race against a new storm.

On the basis of the dirigible's early speed the huge German air liner should have completed more than one fifth of its 5420 mile journey from Tokio to Los Angeles at 7:15 p. m. EST.

The Graf Zeppelin left Kasumigaura flying field near Tokio at 1:13 a. m. EST today and eleven hours later an amateur radio operator here intercepted a message that said it had covered 600 miles on a northeasterly course and had dodged a severe storm.

60 Mile Speed

Therefore the average speed of the craft had been in excess of 60 miles an hour.

The new storm had originated about 800 miles west of the Midway Islands and was moving slowly northward in the direction of the Aleutian Islands.

The course the Graf Zeppelin was following was the regular ship lane to Seattle and runs several hundred miles south of the Aleutian Islands. Unless the winds increase in velocity the dirigible should pass safely in front of their path, weather forecasters believed.

The route Commander Hugo Eckener had apparently chosen would make it almost impossible for him to be sighted from land until he reached Seattle, which is about 4276 miles from Tokio. Then the Graf Zeppelin is scheduled to sail down the coast over San Francisco, a distance of 534 miles, and on to Los Angeles, which is 340 air miles from here where it will be tied to a mast.

There were 19 passengers and a crew of 40 on the air ship when it started the third lap of its cruise around the world. The journey officially started from Lakehurst on Aug. 7. A

3 KILLED IN JERUSALEM

JERUSALEM, Aug. 23.—UP—Arabic villagers, about 100 strong swarmed into the Jewish quarters here today swinging swords and renewing rioting which broke out last week end.

Three were killed and about 50 wounded in the fighting.

Most of the victims were jews.

British police were summoned and started a regular patrol of the streets. They were armed with rifles and supported by armored automobiles. All entrances to Jerusalem were temporarily closed and airplanes were summoned to aid in suppressing further rioting.

The disturbances started at noon, officials said they believed the Arabs were incited against the Jews by propaganda. Great excitement prevails in other towns. Rioting along the sacred wailing wall—all that is left of Soloman's temple—broke out last week. One youth was fatally injured and many others hurt less seriously.

Turner Plans Hop To L. A. Today

ROOSEVELT FIELD, Aug. 23.—UP—Capt. Roscoe Turner late tonight changed his mind and decided to hop off at three a. m. EST Saturday on a return flight to Los Angeles. He will attempt to set a new record for an east to west flight carrying three passengers in his Lockheed Vega cabin monoplane.

AIDS NAMED IN RED CROSS FUND DRIVE TO OPEN NOV. 11

An advisory board to take charge of the annual roll call to be held by the Richmond chapter of Red Cross from Nov. 11 to Nov. 28, was named last night at a session in the Red Cross headquarters.

George Rader heads the committee and he will be assisted by Bert E. Scoble, E. L. Scofield, W. W. Scott, H. M. Flint, A. L. Paulsen, George Thornton, R. R. Robinson, Mrs. E. L. Scofield, Mrs. Italia Hollingsworth, Mrs. W. S Lucas and Mrs. Emma Moitoza.

Mrs. Italia Hollingsworth, executive secretary of the local chapter, reported that the work of the Richmond chapter is increasing to the extent that it cannot be handled by a part-time secretary as at present; and that it will be necessary for the local board of directors to employ a full time worker in the near future.

Most of the work being handled by the chtapter is for ex-service men and their families and this work has gradually increased during the last three years.

Disaster preparedness committee, life saving and swimming campaigns, first aid courses, loan closet and entertainment for service men at Mare Island are among the varied activities that have made the Richmond chapter of American Red Cross one of the most successful on the Pacific coast. To aid this work the board is planning to put on a full time nurse as soon as the roll call is finished.

At the meeting last night the members of the advisory committee decided to have a house to house canvass for enrollments and this phase of the work will be under the direction of Mrs. E. L. Scofield.

More than 3000 members are sought by the local chapter.

The committee for the roll call will be named in the near future.

673rd Hour Of Dance Passed

Four couples in Joe Rossi's El Cerrito dance marathon entered their 29th day of continuous dancing at midnight last night when the 673rd hour was passed.

A "fun" night is being arranged for the Saturday night crowds and Rossi has obtained professional talent to assist the dancers tonight.

50 DROWNED AS FLOOD STRIKES SERBIAN TOWN

VIENNA, Aug. 23.—(U.P.)—Advices from Helgrade tonight reported that 50 persons had been drowned in the south Serbian town of Ueskueb, when the river Vardar overflowed its banks.

Two tributaries of the river flow through the town. The advices said the water of the rivers rose suddenly and the flood submerged about 800 homes and huts. Darkness hindered the attempts to rescue the inhabitants.

Most of the houses were inhabited by gypsies and mohammedians, who lived in the low lying area.

TOWNS DESTROYED BY INDIA FLOOD

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(U.P.)—Exchange telegraph messages from Karachi (India) tonight reported the population along the upper Indus river region panic-stricken and fleeing from their homes as floods which started in the Himalayas early this week grew in force.

The flood water was reported released when a great ice jam in the northwestern mountain region began breaking and released a huge lake into the river.

The flood water is rushing towards Sind, carrying human bodies and submerging villages in its path, the dispatch reported. The Sind commissioner has asked military aid.

The population of Kotri has evacuated and a new outbreak of cholera is feared throughout the province.

It is expected that the flood waters will reach Sind Saturday. Officials believe only a miracle can save the low-lying areas.

FLOOD THREATENS BOMBAY DISTRICT

BOMBAY, Aug. 23.—(U.P.)—A heavy downpour of rain in the last few days has aggravated the Indus river flood situation, although the river is not yet high enough to cause great danger except in the upper regions.

Races interrupted by rain will be extended to insure completion he said.

More than 100,000 persons are expected to witness the opening of the race program Sunday. There are 44 events on the airport program. The final rush of entries brought the list of competing planes in the closed-course events to 150.

The U. S. navy dirigible Los Angeles will be here next Wednesday. A special ground crew from Lakehurst will come to land the huge ship.

SOVIET ARMY ADVANCING ON CHINA

LONDON, Aug. 24.—Saturday—UP—Unconfirmed report from Mukden that 4000 Soviet troops stationed north of Vladivostok had invaded Chinese territory were received today by the Morning Post from its Shanghai correspondent.

The Russians were reported to be moving steadily westward, occupying Misham and other important towns northeast of Lake Hingkai in Manchuria.

JAPANESE WINNERS IN CHINA-RED STRIFE

PEPING, China, Aug. 23.—UP—The outcome of heavy troop movement to the Manchurian border on the part of both China and Russia was anxiously awaited tonight as available frontier reports indicated a lull in border fighting which has been severe in the last week.

The results of Manchurian orders for mobolization of 120,000 reserve troops and the anticipated arrival of the Russian military leaders on the Siberian border are holding the attention of observers following dispatches purported to reveal Soviet plans for an advance on Harbin.

The Russian leader, Gen. Vassili Blacher who was once the Soviet advisor of Chinese military leaders is supposed to be approaching the Manchurian border where Chinese sources estimate about 30,000 to 40,000 Russian troops are concentrated. Meanwhile, the movement of Manchurian forces to the Manchulia and to the eastern border continues.

It is pointed out here that no matter how the present conflict turns out, there is one sure winner—Japan. The Japanese already have profited considerably through the South Manchurian railroad in which their government is a partner.

Extortion Trial To Be Held Across Bay

Trial of Mrs. Mary Lopaz, charged with writing extortion letters to Leo Persico, will probably be held in San Francisco, according to Deputy District Attorney Warren Olney, Jr.

Olney stated yesterday that Mrs. Lopaz has stuck to her confession that the letters were written in Berkeley and mailed from San Francisco. This would make San Francisco the scene of the crime, O'ney stated.

San Francisco authorities will come to Richmond today with a warrant for her arrest, Olney said.

Mrs. Lopaz has been held in the city jail here since Wednesday afternoon, when she was returned here after making a full confession to Chief of Police Dan Cox and Police Inspector George Bengley of Richmond and Inspector Frank Waterbury of Berkeley. She is being held on a "Jane Doe" warrant issued more than a year ago after Persico had received the first extortion letter.

Dr. E. C. Heinrich, criminologist, told police yesterday that the handwriting of the extortion letters that were turned over to him was that of Mrs. Lopaz.

El Cerritan Makes Long Search For Dog

Councilman J. R. Beck and family of El Cerrito, returned home last week from a motor tour of the north—minus their family pet, a female white and ton fox terrier.

While stopping near Ukiah, "Peggy" leaped from the car. Her absence was not noticed until hours later. Beck immediately went back to the spot where they had last seen "Peggy" but they could not find her.

Then on Monday, Beck drove several hundred miles to Scotia and return in hopes that he might find his lost dog. He returned Wednesday without the family pet.

Beck expressed belief yesterday that some motorists had picked up the animal.

11 Children Of Poor Family Big Problem

MARTINEZ, Aug. 23.—For the purpose of determining what is to become of the 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bunans, found with their parents destitute in Niles canyon recently, Dr. T. A. Boyer county probation officer, and Mrs. Katherine Bartolomei, head of the county welfare bureau, held a conference with Alameda county officials yesterday.

The conference followed a demand of the state welfare department which characterized the action of the Bunans as a "rabbit-like giving away of their children."

The Bunans formerly of Richmond were found in a battered automobile and sleeping under a tree in Niles canyon without food clothing or blankets. When their plight became known, aid was offered and the Bunans in two days disposed of their entire brood, ranging in ages from 10 months to 14 years.

The conference held yesterday was an effort to determine where the children are to be placed permanently.

Inquest Held In Barton Death Here

The jury also returned a verdict of death from natural causes in the death of James Luckey of Richmond.

Barton shot himself in the basement of his home, 1224 Lucas avenue Tuesday morning. His body was found by James W. and Fred C. Hoskings, two carpenters who called at the home to do some repair work. Testimony was introduced to the effect that Barton had escaped from the Agnew state hospital for the insane.

Luckey dropped dead at the Richmond police station while taking a drivers' test several weeks ago.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 23.—(U.P.)—Wind, threaening rain and low hanging clouds caused the eight remaining pilots in the Portland-Cleveland air race to decide to remain overnight here, shortly after they arrived from Walla Walla.

RECORD RUN MARKED BY TRAGEDY

"Easy for Zee Zee," the French farce starring Carrie Ellsworth, alias Naana Wortova, which ran 50 weeks at a Green street theater in San Francisco, was closed yesterday, just as District Attorney Matthew Brady was considering "ways and means" of closing the show.

Following the death of Robert Chapman, leading man of the farce, who was plunged to death from a window of a Leavenworth street apartment Wednesday, demands were made by citizens of San Francisco that the show be closed.

S. A. Goldtree, owner and producer of the play, was in Los Angeles when Chapman died. As soon as he was appraised of the attitude of the citizens of San Francisco, he ordered the show closed.

Prohis Raid Cafe

But as quickly as Goldtree moved, the Federal authorities were even quicker. They swooped down upon the Gigolette cafe, below the theater auditorium and arrested the proprietor on a charge of possession of liquor.

On certain nights when "Easy for Zee Zee" was running, the theater gave a free dinner with each ticket for a seat at the play and the cafe was conveniently

THE WOMAN OF IT

BY MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1929

FLIGHTS FOR WOMEN

WOMEN who are interested in women, or in sports, or in the future—oh, all sorts of women—are waiting eagerly for the unique sporting event of the summer, the Women's National Air Derby, which on Sunday morning will be winging its way from Los Angeles to Cleveland. Twenty women aviators are taking the air in this eight-day race (daylight flying only), and the entrants include Amelia Earhart, Marvel Crosson, Bobby Trout, Lady Mary Heath, Louise Thaden McPhetridge and others almost equally noted.

MRS. MARSHALL

The race emphasizes the fact that the air and the news are filled with flying women, these days. Old and young are taking to flight. Pretty, plucky little Elinor Smith of Long Island, a mere schoolgirl, makes endurance flight records and starts off on a Nation-wide safety voyage by air. The sixty-three-year-old Duchess of Bedford lands at Croydon, after completing a ten-thousand-mile record round trip flight from England to India in seven and one-half days. She herself took the controls during a good part of the trip. And Miss Trout and Mrs. McPhetridge, after the Women's Aerial Derby is over, are actually going after the world's refueling endurance flight record, just hung up by Jackson and O'Brine.

Women flyers must appeal to the imagination and the pride of all of us innumerable women who stay on the ground—women who work soberly and unframatically at dishpan and desk, who try to make good children or columns. The flights taken by most of us are only in our minds. But we can and we do thrill in response to the courage, the adventurousness, the sporting spirit, the modern mind, the forward gaze of the women who fly to fame.

IT SEEMS hardly fair to blame American women for backwardness in aviation, as Mrs. Opal Logan Kunz, herself an enthusiastic aviatrix, did the other night. "It is humiliating to admit," she asserted, "that at present there seems to be no American girl who can successfully compete with certain distinguished foreign women in flying. Our women have been slow to realize the wonders and the advantages of flying. Why can't American girls come into this work with the right attitude and learn to fly well enough to compete successfully with any woman on earth?"

One answer to this arraignment is that American men, too, have been "slow to realize the wonders and advantages of flying." Travel by air was a commonplace in Europe, while it was still a nebular hypothesis in America.

Another answer to Mrs. Kunz was given by Miss Earhart in a recent address to Columbia University students, when she explained that the old "artificial difference between the sexes" handicaps women who would fly, just as it always has handicapped women who wanted to do the daring, fascinating, profitable things men do.

Women can qualify in the air as in any other sport, declares the woman assistant to the general manager of Transcontinental Air Transport. But she adds, significantly, "Society pushes men forward and holds women back."

Of course it's true. And of course what she says next is equally true: "Despite their handicaps, girls and women write to me by the hundreds to know the truth about aviation and what a woman's chances are. There is no cause inherent in her nature which would make a woman inferior to a man as an air pilot.

"But commercial aviation is an industry and at present it is much more difficult for a woman to acquire the training and experience required of an industrial pilot on one of the regular airways. The big air-lines must make every effort to enlist her intelligent co-operation."

FLIGHTS for women, in short, ought to be encouraged, not discouraged—and we mean this metaphorically, as well as literally. Aviation is not the only field in which "society pushes men forward and holds women back." Until a comparatively recent period, society set rigid brakes on almost every kind of feminine achievement—and then male critics express surprise because women have not gone ahead! They're still struggling to unlock many a brake of precedent and convention and masculine opposition.

Perhaps the ultimate reason why the woman guiding her plane so appeals to us is because she dramatizes and pictorializes the modern woman's brave effort to spread her wings in flight. Why not give her a fair chance to fly? The future of aviation itself is not more wonderful, more inspiring to the imagination, than the future of woman, who may go so high—and far!

THE MAN OF IT

I. Giovanni

When his face was composed, Giovanni was handsome.
But when he laughed he resembled a gruesome gargoyle.
We children called him "funny face."
That was a long time ago.
Now folk refer to Giovanni as
"That handsome man!"
He is married.

II. Caligero

Caligero, my chauffeur, has had three wives—
One brunette, one blonde and one
sandy-haired.
To-day, I asked him: "In your estimation, Caligero,
"What type of woman is the most desirable?"
Caligero answered promptly:
"Red-haired ones, Madame!"

And Men Complain That Women Make Men Wait!

Sixty-five years ago Jacob Schwartz said goodby to Freda Schmidt, in Kansheim, Germany, and promised to come back if she would wait for him. At the age of ninety-one, he has just left Los Angeles on his way to Freda. But this Associated Press despatch really surprises no modern girl—she knows how long it takes some men to keep their dates.

HOME AGAIN

No more for us the sunset's glow
On rolling waves. Ah, me! No more
That stirring lullaby we'll know—
The restless ocean's mighty roar.
Not now, not now, will our feet roam
The boardwalk by the sandy plain.
Each night the wailing saxophone
Will call our dancing feet in vain.
And stars will shine, and nights be fair,
And when the moon looks on the pier,
He'll see our nicest boy friend there
Whispering in another's ear . . .!

MUSINGS ON MENUS MODERNISTIC

BY NANCY DORRIS

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1929

Some thought may well be given to foods that can be cooked in advance and stored in the refrigerator against an emergency meal in planning the menus for the week.

When friends drop in unexpectedly or impromptu out of door refreshments take the place of a meal, a tasty meat loaf permits the menu-maker to meet the situation unruffled.

NANCY DORRIS

There are fine canned meats, particularly ham and whole chicken, that can be utilized at such a moment. Their cost is not prohibitive considering the quality of the product, its adaptability and its convenient form.

When a home-cooked meat seems desirable nothing is nicer than a meat combination steamed in its own juices, an adaptation of the original galantine. Mrs. G. C. T., North Bellmore, N. Y. suggests this

MEAT GALANTINE (6)

One pound round steak, ground
One pound raw ham, ground
Two eggs, well beaten
One and one-half cups bread crumbs
One-fourth teaspoon nutmeg
One-fourth teaspoon pepper
One teaspoon salt
Juice of one lemon
Grated rind one lemon
Steaming time: four hours

As the meat loaf packed in its mould and well covered steams without attention, the fact that the galantine is not a ten-minute meat need not be held against it. Its flavor depends upon the slow, even steaming in its own juices.

A steamer, or a large kettle with a cover, mould, mixing bowl, measuring cup, bread board and roller for making crumbs, teaspoon, sharp knife, lemon squeezer, grater, bowl, fork, and large spoon constitute the culinary equipment for the galantine test.

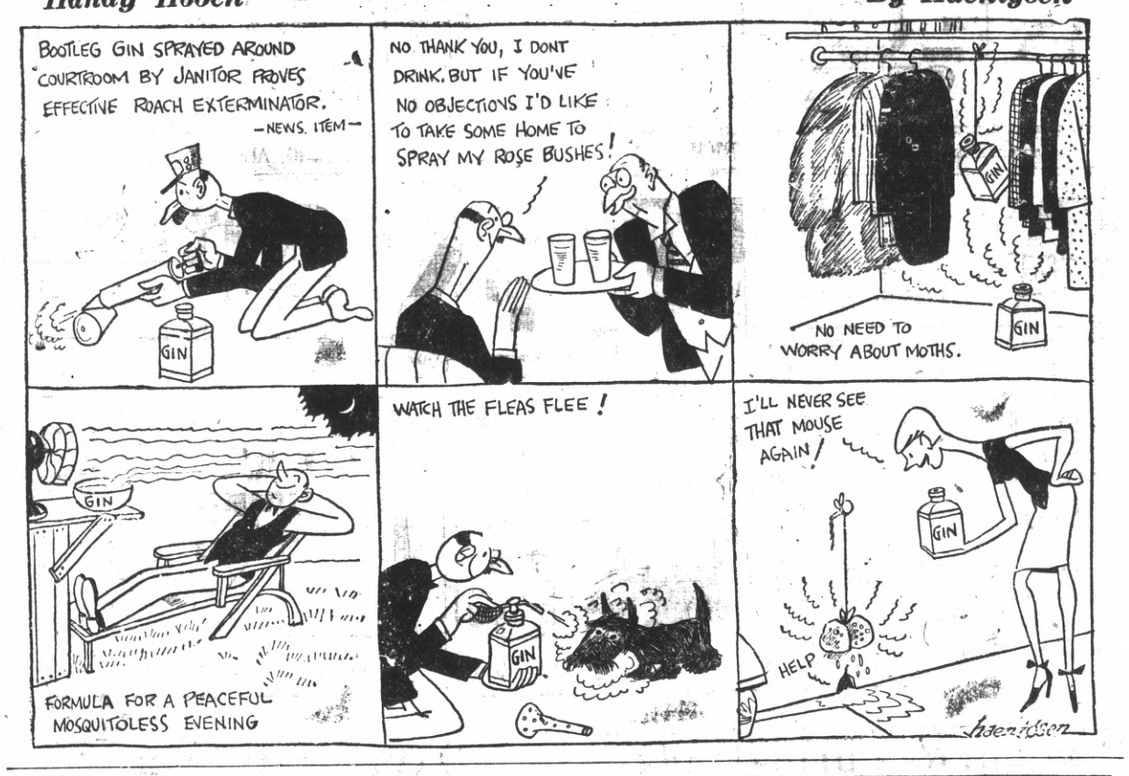

The butcher will grind and prepare the correct amounts of round steak and raw ham. The end cuts of ham, rather than the middle cuts, are advisable from a cost standpoint. Or the ham end and round steak may be purchased and ground in the kitchenette.

Combine the ground ham and steak in the mixing bowl with the eggs which have been well beaten with a fork, the nutmeg, pepper and salt. Roll the bread crumbs fine upon the board with the rolling pin and mix into the meat mixture.

Grate the yellow rind of the lemon and then squeeze the juice from the lemon; mix grated rind and juice and stir into the meat. Pack the meat into the well-greased mould, cover carefully with a greased or oiled paper and set the mould in the steamer or large kettle containing warm water. The depth of the water should measure one-third the height of the mould. As the water is evaporated during the steaming it should be replenished.

Cover the steamer or kettle and bring the water to a boil, then reduce the heat and let steam gently for four hours when the galantine should be well done and deliciously flavored. Remove from the steamer, cool in its mould and store in the refrigerator. Slice thin before serving, or slice at the table. Garnish with deviled eggs, tomatoes topped with mayonnaise and olives.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

By Robert Barry

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1929

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Devastating forest fires are raging in the Northwest country.

The greatest factor in the prompt discovery of forest fires has been the airplane. The overhead patrol is invaluable. In the actual turning back of the waves of flames the airplane has been the eyes of the ground fighters, blinded and choked.

A harmless little publicity item by the Forestry Service has been twisted into a representation that forest fires are being caused by cigars and cigarets dropped from airplanes. The Forestry Service never intended some recent tests it conducted to carry any such implication.

The tests did show that three out of five cigarets dropped at 1,000 feet were burning when they struck ground and that all of five cigars remain lighted.

There were suggestions that Department of Commerce regulations might be sought to impose penalties against air passengers tossing cigaret stubs indiscriminately from planes flying over national forests.

That is stuff and nonsense.

Pilots do not smoke in their cockpits. That removes the biggest factor in air travel. On the big passenger carrying planes smoking is permitted. I rode in a twelve-passenger Fokker of the Western Air Express and smoked freely. There was an ash tray at my elbow. I could not have flipped any "butts" to let them light where they might if the impulse had seized me. The windows of the cabin are kept closed.

FIRE SPOTTERS OF THE AIR

The inevitable confusion in the public mind resulting from simultaneous publication of the test of cigarets dropped from airplanes and the spread of forest fires in Oregon, California, Idaho, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Washington has seemed so patently unfair I have delved a bit into the history of forest fires.

The commercial aviation business has expanded to a high pressure business where slick ad writers, whose wives forbid them to roam the skyways, are grinding out impressive copy on the safety of air travel. More power to them.

The stunters of the air are riding anew on the turned back one-man tops of big automobiles and winning all manner of new prizes from autographs of Hoover and Mussolini to meal tickets in perpetuity at one-arm and two-table restaurants.

It is seldom we hear about the Airplane Forest Patrol. There is a casual line now and then in some press despatch from a flame-swept field. The forest patrol has been on spotter duty for less than ten years, in every one of which it has been undermanned, underpaid and under-equipped. It has covered over a million miles of flying space back and forth across forests where emergency landings were out of the question. Back and forth, not in the clouds high above but in the smoke clouds sweeping over vast areas.

From the small beginnings in California in 1919, the Airplane Forest Patrol has come to be as great a dependence as the picturesque ranger and his ever faithful horse silhouetted on a big rock on a mountain top against a setting sun and both looking romantic and movie-like.

There is adventure yet in the life of the ranger, but the air pilot has him skinned to death on spotting those sinister curling smokes rising from the valleys of the forests where no smoke ought to be.

Handicapped as he is by scented imitators in Hollywood, the forest ranger remains quite a figure. The air patrol has yet to endure the mimicry of the eerie heroes which might prove worse than the lack of a square deal it is obtaining in the current news reports and Federal budgets.

The truth about forest fires is not hard to obtain.

We are learning a lot about them from year to year. We are reducing the average of the fire fiend.

In 1926, the forest area needing protection against fires was 529,850,290 acres, but in 1927 that had grown to 533,210,320 acres. To offset that, the area under protection had been expanded twenty and one-half million acres, which is quite a lot of territory, as acres go.

The Forestry Service reports that 4,754,580 acres of forest were swept by fire in 1926, against 2,209,370 in 1927.

The causes of forest area burned are of importance to our text and here are the figures given in acres:

	1927	1926
Lightning	94,260	567,190
Railroads	134,829	221,580
Campfires	140,390	241,520
Smokers	507,290	504,910
Brush burning	318,020	559,140
Incendiary	570,110	732,660
Lumbering	168,100	203,840
Miscellaneous	311,990	305,350
Unknown	232,610	698,880

Many months are required to obtain and publish accurate statistics about forest fires and the extent of their damage.

The Federal Government does business by fiscal years ending June 30 and not by calendar years. Statistics for the year of 1927 ending June 30, 1928, are the best we have at hand.

They are eloquent enough for our purposes. Of 533,210,320 acres of forest land needing protection against fire only 32.5 per cent. or 173,485,480 acres were protected. The number of fires in 1926 was 57,926. There were 123,138 in 1927. The acreage burned in 1926 was 19,561,480. In 1927 it was 35,747,380. The damage in dollars grew from $11,884,060 to $29,088,200. The figures for 1928 and 1929 are likely to be worse rather than better on the fire demon's devastation of the national forests. This year's fires are sweeping great areas of valuable timber.

New York has done more to develop its State forests than any other State. The efforts of other States in the aggregate would not total what Gov. Smith planned and nurtured. Pennsylvania is the only State to approach New York in the area of State forest preserves and reforestation.

A great playground for millions of residents in the Nation's metropolis is being developed in New York State. A forest fire caused by the carelessness or indifference of one cigaret smoker or camper might deprive thousands of an outing among trees on which the taxpayers of the State expended money for the indefinite enjoyment of all.

The officials of the United States Forestry Service tell me that the great percentage of forest fires are man-made. That means that human beings cause them and that human precaution can prevent them. Even in the Rocky Mountains, where lightning starts more forest fires than anywhere else in the country, the fires due to lightning are only 10 per cent. of the known causes, while something like 63 per cent are directly attributable to human causes.

When you stop to think it over, aren't we a mean and a selfish breed when we neglect to do the little thing which would save a tree from destruction by fire, especially when that thing meant merely stamping out a cigaret "butt" on the floor of an automobile before tossing it among dead leaves on the roadside?

It takes but a second or two to see that a match from which we have lighted a cigar or a cigaret is out before we toss it from a car, yet the investigations show that miles on miles of stately trees have been reduced to ghastly skeletons because some one thought it a smart aleck thing to toss a flaming match from the side of an automobile.

After enjoying a week-end among the trees, it requires but a few minutes to drench out a campfire, turn over the embers and dump earth on them, yet a hundred thousand to a quarter million acres of trees are burned every year as a result of campers who have had their outings and, being indifferent to others, move on and leave a charred area instead of a camping site they found so enjoyable.

Cigarets tossed from airplanes are not causing our forest fires.

Thoughtlessness of those who travel miles by auto away from the hot streets of the cities to the shelter of the trees, the National and State Governments are developing, is causing the trouble. It seems incredible that any one having enjoyed the camping delights of New York's State forest preserves should be indifferent to saving them, not merely for a return engagement next year but for some other family equally desirous of and needful of a vacation among the trees—a camping out in the Adirondacks or the Catskills now available to every owner of a flivver where only millionaires could play a few years ago.

The United States Forestry Service has some interesting booklets about simple precautions. They carry hints about things most of us forget when we ride along the highways. I believe I can get copies enough to send Evening World readers who enjoy the camping sites of New York's forest preserves and would like to find them there again next year instead of being the innocent causes of erecting charred sentinels of carelessness.

Can Fish Hear?

Some English savants are debating the question whether or no fish can hear. The evidence of our old friend Izaak Walton does not seem conclusive to men of science. For this is what he said in the "Compleat Angler": "Eels unbed themselves and stir at the sound of thunder, carp come to the surface in a pond at the ringing of a bell or the beating of a drum." Furthermore, he quotes Pliny as having said that one of the emperors had particular fish ponds, and in them several fish that appeared and came when they were called by their particular names. Walton also recommended anglers to be patient and forbear swearing, lest they be heard and catch no fish. Fishes dislike profanity, it seems. But all this evidence does not satisfy certain scientists. They maintain that conclusive proof is lacking hitherto and they will shortly proceed to an exhaustive investigation. While they are at it they might simultaneously look into the matter of the muteness of fishes. It would be a victory for the drys if they could establish that fishes talk, or whisper even. For an old Latin song, never questioned hitherto, has it that fishes are dumb and that water does it. While with wine it's just the other way around.

If the King Abdicates

The following appeared in Aux Ecoutes, a generally well-informed Parisian weekly: "British diplomatic agents in Paris have been busy these last few weeks sounding French political opinion on the eventuality of King George abdicating his throne in the event that his health does not improve. In England the King's condition is viewed with considerable disquietude, in spite of reassuring official bulletins. It is generally admitted that the Prince of Wales, who is particularly popular with the working classes, is no baby to be played with. He is a man of ability and character, who, in the estimation of many, is destined to play the role of an Edward VII. once he sits on the throne. King George is much more pliable and Mr. MacDonald looks with apprehension to the time when the Prince should take the reins in hand. A first little tilt between the Prince and the Labor Premier has already taken place, it is said. This occurred on the day when the Prince of Wales returned from Paris, where he had attended the funeral of Marshal Foch. Mr. MacDonald had shrugged his shoulders when he heard the Prince wanted to go to Paris personally. 'It's not necessary at all that the Prince should go,' he said. When the Prince returned the Prince went to see him at once and had a long talk with him."

Mecca Pilgrimage

Progress transforms everything, including devotional duties, apparently. Even the trip to Mecca, hitherto considered a frightful job, has become more agreeable and pleasant. Formerly pilgrims were packed into boats and after a painful sea passage on which, often, dozens paid with their lives, the Moslems not infrequently fell from the fat into the frying pan. Disease attacked them in their enfeebled state as soon as they landed. Mortality among the pilgrims used to be something terrific. Now things are improving. The Governors of Algiers and Tunis have placed steamers de luxe at the disposal of the pilgrims and the journey has become a pleasure trip. Then, furthermore, the City of the Prophet has been cleaned up by order of Ibn Saoud and, according to reports, the first motion picture house is shortly to open its doors there. A German company has been granted the concession and is already building a first rate nickelodeon. Then a few skyscrapers are bound to follow soon. A speakeasy or two, and Mecca will be quite a livable place.

THE BOOZE-OF-THE-MONTH CLUB

HOW would you like to get the latest and best cocktail recipes, gin formulas, &c.? Join the Booze-of-the-Month Club now! The opportunity of a life time to be abreast of what is best in current drinking.

The Booze-of-the-Month Club has a selection committee composed of Ludwig B. Throop, Jason Inkwiper, Homer L. Flagstone, Ira M. Ginz and Leroy Wisp. Each is an outstanding authority on every phase of drinking, from dropping juniper juice into a crock of home-made gin to scraping a spilled cocktail out of a lady's lap with a handkerchief.

Here is the way the club operates: Each month the leading rum runners, speakeasies and alky racketeers submit their best products to the committee. The committee then retires to an apartment and gives each sample submitted a thorough test. Sometimes, in the process of deliberation to arrive at a decision, the committee is locked up for three days and nights. Recently, a committee member on the way home was locked up for sixty days. This gives you an idea of the intensive research to which the committee submits.

After the Booze-of-the-Month Club's selection is made it is cut to quarto and pinto sizes and distributed to bona fide subscribers. Thus you are assured of getting the latest and best in booze. Not a single booze selection is ever more than six days old when it is delivered. Sometimes even the ink on the label is damp.

By subscribing to Booze-of-the-Month Club service you are able to give your friends and guests the same kind of stuff that is being served at New York's smartest cocktail parties. Just let it be known you are a member of the Booze-of-the-Month Club and you have a reputation of being discriminating and people never dare to knock your hooch.

To show how Booze-of-the-Month service works out, just look at its successful record. In June, 1928, the selection committee chose the ether cocktail. An ordinary cocktail just spiked with a jab of ether. It was a Nation-wide sensation at once. So many ether cocktails were issued, following the committee's announcement, that not only were shakers kept busy pouring out extra issues, but operations had to be halted in hospitals till some second-hand ether could be dug up.

Again in March, 1929, the Booze-of-the-Month Committee selected synthetic gin. This edition was issued in one-gallon sizes, in a full measure tin can. The table of contents included a nice instalment of Belgian alcohol, one pint of glycerine and a touch of oil of juniper. Subscribers merely had to pour this selection into a crock of distilled water and obtain a very exciting allotment of gin.

This selection was enough to last the average person a month, but many enthusiastic subscribers wrote in that once they had begun sampling the gin, they couldn't lay it down until they had finished it, even though they had to stay up all night. This gives an idea of the splendid results subscribers are getting every month.

Other praiseworth selections made by the Booze-of-the-Month Committee, include Ambassador Scotch for April, 1929; Bacardi rum for May, 1929; green chartreuse for June, 1929, and Four Roses rye for July.

Many other fine selections are promised for the coming year. You cannot afford to be without them. Subscribe to the Booze-of-the-Month Club now. A nice five-foot shelf for your cellar locker is offered as an extra inducement to those who join the Booze-of-the-Month Club before Sept. 15.

The Beauty Shop

A Tale of Two Women

ONE was rich and the other was poor. But both were young and healthy.

The rich one, naturally, had all the time in the world and a good deal of the money in the world, with which to make herself beautiful. The poor one had no time for beauty culture and, of course, no money and this made her envious of her friend.

FRANCES OLIVIER

However, being a healthy minded as well as a healthy bodied person, the poor one wasted none too much of her energy in envy. Instead, she formed the habit of using to advantage her spare moments—the "between-times" which occur automatically in even the most crowded lives.

While the potatoes were boiling, for instance, she would rub a bit of lemon over her hands and arms. During the long walks, which every housewife takes about her house, and when doing her marketing too, she remembered always to hold her chin up and her chest high. In this way she managed to preserve an attractive carriage.

Her workaday costume was the usual sensible one, plus a forehead strap of surgical gauze—to keep her brow young—a chin strap of surgical gauze—to keep her chin firm—and work gloves of canvas or rubber to protect her hands against dust and harsh soaps.

Every time she dried her hands she pinched her finger ends to make them taper, and pushed back the cuticle to make a lovely frame for her nails. And when she dried her face, she made it a habit to pat it dry and mould it upward. When drying her eyes she gently pushed the lashes upward, and arched her brows with her fingers.

Were you to come in upon her unexpectedly during mid-morning, you would see her face comically plastered with an oatmeal "mask." Nothing special, merely the left-overs from breakfast. The pot liquors of vegetables, such as spinach, carrots, beets and asparagus, she would not think of throwing away. She drank these precious "beauty medicines."

According to all the rules of fiction, the rich woman ought to get old and wrinkled, while the poor one stays young and blooming, but ours is a true story. And what really happened was this: Both women met after many years and both, in spite of their opposite stations in life, were equally good to look at.

Now, the moral of this tale is, the cultivation of beauty demands neither wealth nor leisure, but the wise and consistent employment of spare moments.

The Farmer's Advice

I HAVE been feeding the birds this morning and have found it a great amusement. It also disposes of the stale bread we have in the house.

Let me recommend that you feed the birds with your stale bread. You will learn a lot about the feathery creatures, I assure you. In the first place, you will learn how selfish they are and how like human beings in this and other characteristics.

MRS GEORGE SLOANE WEARS A BOW-TRIMMED

Soft bows trim the light crepe two-piece frock worn by Mrs. George Sloane at the Saratoga races. Small revers anad a loosely knotted bow contribute to the graceful neckline. Inverted tucks lend fulness to the shoulder line and pouched sleeves further emphasize the feminine trend of the model.

The blouse is buttoned down the front, held in tightly at the hipline and slipped over a widely pleated skirt. For accessories Mrs Sloane has chosen a wide-brimmed, sheer straw hat, ribbon bound; light kid slip-on gloves; sun-tan hued silk stockings and plain kid pumps. She carries a gayly striped fabric bag.

Mrs. George Sloane is among the contingent of Americans sailing this week for Scotland to indulge in a bit of grouse shooting before going on to Paris.

'WHEEL OF LIFE' MADE TRUE TO LIFE

No picture that Paramount has made in recent years has received such diligent application of the company's research facilities as has "The Wheel of Life," Richard Dix's newest all talking vehicle, which comes to the Fox-California theater for two days beginning tomorrow.

Much of the action of the picture takes place in a temple of the Buddhist lamas or high-priests, who hold sway over the people of Tibet, the territory north of India in the Himalaya mountains.

Tibet is the highest country in the world, comprising table-lands averaging over 16,000 feet above sea level. The natives are a racial mixture of Turks and Mongols and they have long been hostile to the inroads of explorers and eastern travelers.

Maj Fairbanks Smith, who served 14 years with the British army in India, was appointed technical director of the picture. His knowledge of the country and the costumes of the lamas and their people was used to great advantage in working out the technical details of picture and sound in the mysterious temple scenes.

Richard Dix plays the role of a British captain in the drama and Esther Ralston is his leading lady. O. P. Heggie, famous Broadway actor, is cast in the chief male supporting role.

Victor Schertzinger was the director of "The Wheel of Life."

Also on the bill is a Laurel and Hardy talking comedy entitled "Birth Marks."

'SHOW BOAT' TO CLOSE RUN TONIGHT

The most convincing and unusual portrayal of the colorful life on board the floating theaters of the Missippi and Ohio rivers is contained in Universal's million dollar super production, "Show Boat" which closes its engagement tonight at the Fox-California theater.

The theater was filled with Southern melodies and Negro spirituals, the latter having an important part in the story of "Show Boat," and proving a moving musical theme for the great production. Included were many songs specialy written for Ziegfeld's stage production 'Show Boat' by Jerome Kern and which are enjoying wide popularity at the present time on records, over radion and in dancing places.

"Show Boat" is a talking picture adaptation of Edna Ferber's best selling novel of the same name and roncerns the romance of Magnolia Hawks, the Show Boat star, and Gaylord Ravenal, the Mississippi river gambler, who turns actor. These roles are played by Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut. Both give tremendously realistic portrayals.

Otis Harlan, as Captain Andy Hawks and Emily Fitzroy, as Parthenia Ann Hawks, give outstanding characterizations. Little Jane La Verne who plays Magnolia as a child, is an altogether charming little trouper.

Alma Rubens as Julie ,the actress who becomes the notorious Hetty Chilson of Chicago underworld fame ,is splendid.

To Harry Pollard goes credit for the direction of which will be regarded by many as the greatest motion picture of, not only this year, but many other years. Charles Kenyon wrote the scenario and Tom Reed the excellent titles and dialogue.

Helen Morgan, Jules Bledsoe and Aunt Jemima, from Ziegfeld's "Show Boat" are good in song hits from that production, which have been interpolated in the talking picture.

New Pastor May Occupy Pulpit At Church Here

Rev. J. F. Condor, pastor of the Methodist church (South), of Medford, Ore., may occupy the pulpit of the Community Methodist church here as the result of an exchange with Rev. George W. Forman, pastor of the local church.

Rev. Condor declared that he would like to settle in the bay region, so his son could visit him during the furlough. Rev. Condon has a son who is a purser on a Dollar line steamer and has a furlough each year.

Rev. Forman has preached for the past two summers at the Medford church and the congregation has asked that he be given charge of their church. The matter of exchange will be adjusted at the Methodist conference which meets Sept. 19, in Modesto.

ON WITH THE SHOW

"ON WITH THE SHOW," is the first 100% natural color, Vitaphone picture. It is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Willie Durant is financing Nita French, an actress, in a musical show, but refuses to put up more money. Jerry Connolly, the manager, accuses Durant of being attentive to Kitty, the stage-struck check room girl, and inducing her father, Dad Malone, and her sweetheart, Jimmy, to invest their life savings to gain a hold over her. The box-office is robbed and Jimmy and Jerry are suspected. Jimmy finds Kitty with Durant and quarrels with her. Then Nita refuses to finish the performance unless she gets her salary, but Kitty goes on in her part. Kitty explains to Jimmy why she was with Durant.

"You stay there." Jerry pushed Nita into her dressing room. "And if you dare to come out, I'll beat you black and blue." He banged the door closed, and hurried back to the wings followed by Sam and Pete.

A loud burst of applause filled the auditorium. Kitty and Harold ran off hand in hand and then went back again to take their bows. The clapping continued, long and lingering, forcing them onto the stage again and again. Even the members of the cast were adding their plaudits to the general commotion that reigned throughout the house. Jerry was frantically slapping Jimmy on the back, laughing like an hysterical woman.

The New Star Brought Down the House

Taking her final bow, Kitty ran off, her face flushed with excitement, her breath coming quickly.

"Oh, Jerry—Jimmy—" she flung herself into the manager's arms.

"Kitty, you were great. . . That was simply swell. . . You saved the show, kid. . . You've got Nita skinned a mile. . . Where'd you learn to sing like that? . . How'd you know the lines? . . You're a great little actress. . ."

From all sides the compliments were showered upon her head. Jerry was pumping her arm up and down excitedly, unable to speak. Beaton, the comedian, was patting her on the shoulder. Jimmy's eyes were shining, and he held tightly to the girl's free hand. Sarah Bogardy was jumping up and down, trying to make herself heard above the general hubbub. And on the outskirts of the crowd, his face alight with joy, his eyes mistily teared, stood Dad Malone.

"How did you ever manage it, Kitty." Jerry at last contrived to regain his voice. "The wig, I mean—and the costume—"

"Oh, it was easy enough," Kitty looked up at the manager and smiled shyly. "You see, Jimmy came and got me. He told me about Nita not going on until she got paid. He hasn't any brother to borrow money from, like he told you. He saw a chance for me to show you I could act. We were afraid to tell you because we thought maybe you wouldn't let me try it."

"I have been just dumb enough to do that little thing," Jerry admitted, "but how did you—"

"I'm coming to that," Kitty explained. "You see when I was looking around that prop room for the manuscript I found a red wig, and so all I had to do was brush it up and get it on. It's not so good as it could be, but the tiara covers the worst parts."

"You'll go on on Broadway wearing your own hair," Jerry laughed.

"Oh, Jerry, do you mean that?" Kitty gasped. "Say it again—about Broadway."

"You heard me the first time," the manager laughed, patting her hand. "But you'd better go and get ready for the next act."

He pushed aside the other members of the cast and hurried Kitty out towards the dressing rooms. "I'll get Nita's costumes for you," he assured the girl.

CHAPTER XIV

The Dorsey twins and Sarah Bogardy stood grouped about Kitty in her dressing room helping her to put on the finishing touches for the third act. The girl stared at herself in the mirror scarcely realizing that it was Kitty Malone looking bck at her. She was so proud and happy with everybody saying that she had saved the show. Dad hadn't been in to see her yet, but then Dad understood. He had been an actor once himself and he knew how excited she must be. He would wait until after the show to congratulate her.

"You were perfectly gorgeous! Simply magnificent!" Sarah was babbling, "My dear, I never knew you had it in you."

"Aren't you kidding me," Kitty asked shyly.

She loved to hear the words of praise, but she was still self-conscious, and the effusions of Sarah made her blush.

"What's the difference?" Berta questioned.

"It sounds good, anyhow," Betty put in.

"But just let me give you a tip," Sarah warned, nodding her head significntly. "You keep out of Nita's way. She's threatened to kill you if you go on in this act, and my dear that female is dynamite."

"I'm not afraid of her," Kitty boasted.

"Well, you'd better keep away from her, anyhow," Sarah insisted. "I'll keep an eye on her for you. If she makes a suspicious move I'll yoohoo, like this," the comedienne yodled shrilly.

"What good'll that do," Barta demanded.

"Kitty can run or get help," Sarah replied. "Anyway, I just love to worry Nita. Now I'll run out and you see if you can hear me all right."

The comedienne flew out of the dressing room. The twins exchanged amused glances.

"That dame's dizzy," Berta grinned.

"When she was a kid somebody left her too long on a merry-go-round," Betty added.

"Oh, she means—" A strident bellow interrupted Kitty's words. "Can you hear me all right?" Came Sarah's voice from without.

"Yes," Kitty called back.

"Well, we've been on the same bill with sword swallowers," Berta began.

"But never before with a yoohooer," Berta finished.

"Overture! Overture!" The call-boy tapped on Kitty's door. A little thrill ran up and down her spine. It was wonderful to have the call-boy knocking at your door, telling you it was time to go on. This seemed like the culmination of all her dreams, and Broadway—Broadway would be the next stopping place.

"Well, see you later." Simultaneously the twins turned and hurried out.

Kitty added a dab of powder to her nose, fluffed out the soft tulle skirt and followed in their wake. As she rounded the curve in the stairway, she looked below. There stood Jimmy, a huge bouquet of flowers almost hiding his face. She hurried on down.

"I came—I came to say a few words to you before leaving town," Jimmy began hesitatingly, his head still buried in the flowers, ashamed to look up. He seemed to be playing the role of a martyr and getting a great deal of melancholy satisfaction from it.

"Why, Jimmy," Kitty gasped. "Where are you going?"

"I ain't decided definitely, yet, but before I go, I just want you to remember that I—well, I—" he stumbled self-consciously, "I started you on the road to fame."

Kitty bit her lip to keep from smiling. Jimmy was so serious, so young. "But why all the tragedy? What's the big idea?" she spoke lightly.

"As I gaze from my lonely hut," Jimmy began solemnly, "over the mountain tops at sundown, I'll think of you and wonder if you remember the boy who placed your ladder on the foot—I mean your foot on the ladder of fame."

"Oh, Jimmy, I—"

"Let me finish. Here is a slight token of my esteem." The boy thrust the flowers towards Kitty, scarcely daring to raise his head. "There ain't nothing personal in it. It's just what any fan might give to any artist."

"They're beautiful, Jimmy." Kitty took the bouquet and held it lovingly. "Thank you so much." Suddenly she threw her arms about the boy's neck and kissed him.

"Don't, Kitty, please." Jimmy pushed her away. "Don't make our parting any harder. Can't you see I'm trying not to break down?"

SHOWERS COME AS HOPI RAIN DANCE ENDS

WINSLOW, Ariz., Aug. 23.—UP—T white man may scoff and look on with derisive curiosity at snake dances of the Hopi but that is because he doesn't understand how to appeal to the gods and how to please them.

Soon after day had broken this morning and the climaxing ceremonials of the Hopi's annual prayer for rain and bountiful harvest had gotten underway, the heavens became overcast in all of the reservation country north of here.

Tonight rain is falling.

The Hopis are making merry in their hogans and around their campfires, while 4000 palefaces who had traveled many miles to witness the solemn rites of the snake dance, are facing unpleasant rides back to highways and civilization

The snake dance, which brought to a close nine days of ritual concluded at sundown tonight, and will not be repeated until next August, dates to be chosen by head priests of the tribe.

The dates are determined by meterological signs and mysterious indications beyond knowledge of the white man.

The following three days will be given over to merrymaking and feasting, a Hopi custom.

Another Air Trail Marked

TEX RANKIN recently stepped out of his plane at Agua Caliente after completing a record dash from Vancouver. B. C. to Mexico in 13 hours, seven minutes and 49 seconds. Rankin's Great Lakes plane was powered with Richfield gasoline. Rankin was greeted on his landing by officials of the Richfield company (upper left). Tex's sun-tanned, oil covered face is shown in the closeup (upper right). Greeted by the natives, Tex dons sombrero and serape (lower left). His sturdy plane is shown at lower right as it taxied to a stop.

WHAT TO DO when the mercury hits 90 and no swimming pool in sight has been solved by this pretty miss who is utilizing a relic of the days before the auto had supplanted Old Dobbin.

NEW RECORD MADE BY PILOT

AGUA CALIENTA, Baja California (Mexico) Aug. 24.—This being Mexico, an absolutely unsteady land, glasses clinked merrily in the hotel and casino of the trans-border "Monte Carlo" the other night in honor of Tex Rankin, famous American stunt flier. For Tex, flying a tiny four cylinder Great Lakes plane, its Cirrus motor powered with Richfield gasoline and lubricated with Richlube oil, had just landed here at forty-eight minutes and twenty six seconds after 5 p. m.; had just set an officially sanctioned non-stop, non-refuelled, solo record from Canada to Mexico. The plane having taken off that morning at 4:40:37 a. m., the official time was announced by the observers as 13 hours, 7 minutes and 49 seconds, an average of better than 100 miles an hour for the entire distance.

And, aside from the size of the little sport ship which Tex used—its wingspread being but 28 feet; its engine only a 90 horsepower, 4 cylinder affair—the most comment was caused by his true economy record. For a check of the ship showed that only 75 gallons of Richfield had been used for the 1350 miles—an average of 18 miles to the gallon.

"Why that's better than auto average!" was the amazed exclamation which went around when it became known that the plane still contained 25 gallons of the 100 gallon load with which it had been started.

On landing here at the Agua Caliente airport, Rankin was officially welcomed to Mexico by J. G. Castro, representing Mayor Adrian Cubillas of Tijuana and by Mayor Cubilla's committee: J. Sepulveda, G. Terroros and S. B. Reachi. As an added touch of distinction, M. Gonzalez, head of the Tijuana chamber of commerce, arranged to have Tex welcomed by Mexican boys dressed in the colorful Mexican national costumes of serapes and broad sombreros.

Officials who checked in the plane here on behalf of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale and the N. A. A., under whose sanction the flight was staged, were William Van Dusen, chief observer, and Howard Morin, chief timer. Mayor Harry Clark and a committee of San Diegans represented that city in the reception.

The following morning, as guests of David Zarate, president of the Ensenada Chamber of Commerce, Rankin, Senor Reachi Richfield officials and others flew from here to Ensenada, "summer capital" of Lower California. There they were entertained with a quail luncheon at the Green Mill cafe, after which they hopped to San Diego.

DEMOCRATS TO BATTLE ON TARIFF

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(U.P.)—Democrats in the Senate will seek to modify the administration tariff bill but have no hope of defeating it, Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking Democratic members of the Senate finance committee, announced today.

The Democratic position, made known after a meeting of minority party members of the finance committee, is less bold than that taken by independent western Republicans, who announced yesterday through Senator Borah of Idaho, that they would try to defeat the entire bill.

"We all feel that it is a bad bill and that it ought to be defeated," Simmons said. "But inasmuch as it cannot be defeated we have decided to do the best we can to make it a good bill."

Democratic opposition will be concentrated on provisions for a gradual change from the foreign to the domestic valuation system; retention of the flexible tariff; and continuance of the tariff commission, he explained.

Simmons said the proposal of Senator Reed, Rep., Pa., for a shift to domestic valuation as the basis for tariff charges would invite manipulation. This proposal was adopted in a modified form by Republican members of the committee.

"It is as objectionable as Smoot's sliding sugar scale," Simmons added.

Rates were not discussed except in a general way at today's conference, he revealed. Sub committees were appointed, however to draft Democratic amendments to the Republican bill, which will be presented as soon as debate gets under way next month.

Rotary Urged To Aid Boys In Life Work

At the meeting of the Rotary club yesterday Paul Reiger, San Francisco perfume manufacturer and one of the best known Rotarians in America urged every Rotarian to say a kindly and inspiring word to a boy—either his own or some other boy every day. He cited instances in the lives of many prominent and successful men who started on the ladder to success by the chance remark made to them in their impressionable years, by some man.

Bruce Corrie of the Rotary clubs boys work committee was chairman of the day.

Clark Bargar, manager of Alberts department store was received into membership, replacing Harry Albert, who moved to San Rafael to reside. Reginald Carlson, secretary of the Richmond Y. M. C. A. gave a five minutes talk, taking his life work as the topic.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

Orchestra To Be Formed By Austrian Group

First steps toward the organization of an orchestra by the Austro-American Benevolent association were taken last night at a session in the Woodmen hall. Meetings will be held by the group each Friday night at 7:30 at a place to be designated later.

Thirteen persons have joined the orchestra which will be under the direction of Marion D. Hurd. Persons interested in joining the group have been invited to do so.

Health Period Follows Flu

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—Influenza epidemics are followed by periods of unusually good health, believes Deputy Health Officer Ennels. He credits flu for the fact that Knoxville is almost free from the usual spring crop of measles, whooping cough, mumps, chicken pox and other children's malagies.

WOMAN, LOVER HANGED IN QUEBEC

HULL, Quebec., Aug. 23.—(U.P.)—While a black flag flew over the county jail here and a crowd of morbidly curious thronged the streets, Mrs. Marie Viau and Hilibert Lefervbe were hanged today for murder.

Mrs. Viav, 42, and the mother of eight children, was the sixth woman to hang in this province. For putting her to death on a gallows brought from Montreal, official executioner Ellis drew $100. He got the same amount for ending the life of Lefervbe, 32-year old war veteran.

It was their parish priest who first suspected the two of giving Mrs. Viau's husband poison so they might continue a clandestine love affair in the lonely rural section of Montpelier. It was two other priests who offered the gallows victims final consolation through a dreary rainy night.

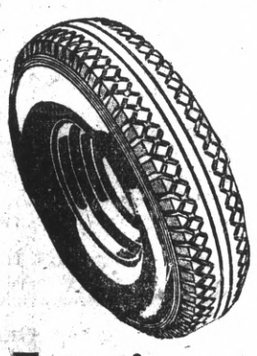

The executions, first scheduled to take place soon after midnight were postponed until 8 a. m. Executioner Ellis slept soundly during the interval. Lefebve walked up the nine steps to the trap a little before 8. Mrs. Viau followed and was pronounced dead at 8:16 a. m.

WARDWEAR
a 10,000-mile guaranteed tire at the lowest price ever known

We emphasize this fact because it is important. Too many motorists are today being confused with price-and-quality comparisons which are deceptive. Many manufacturers insist on calling "first-quality" what are actually their "second-line" tires—and suggesting that their prices are lower than Ward's by comparing them with the price of Ward's FIRST QUALITY LINE!

This sort of "tangled talk" should be straightened out. All such comparisons should in reality be made only between leading makers' SECOND lines and the WARDWEAR. When they are, Ward's prices will always be found to be lower.

Rum Buyers To Be Protected

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug., 23 (U.P.) —Purchasers of bootleg liquor in Knoxville who are short measured may refer the matter to City Sealer W. C. Fraser with assurance their loss will be prosecuted.

"As I see it," the city sealer said, "selling any amount of liquor doesn't nullify a further offense of short measuring a customer."

HONOLULU CLUB IN LEAD OF SWIM MEET

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—UP—Sensational performances by Clarence "Buster" Crabbe enabled the Outrigger Canoe club of Honolulu to maintain its lead in the National Swimming championships here today.

But, as on the first day of the meet, it remained for a young woman, swimming in a special race, to break the only record during the program. Eleanor Holm of the New York Women's Swimming association clipped 12 seconds from the former world's record for the 300 yard medley by swimming the event in four minutes, 25 3-5 seconds.

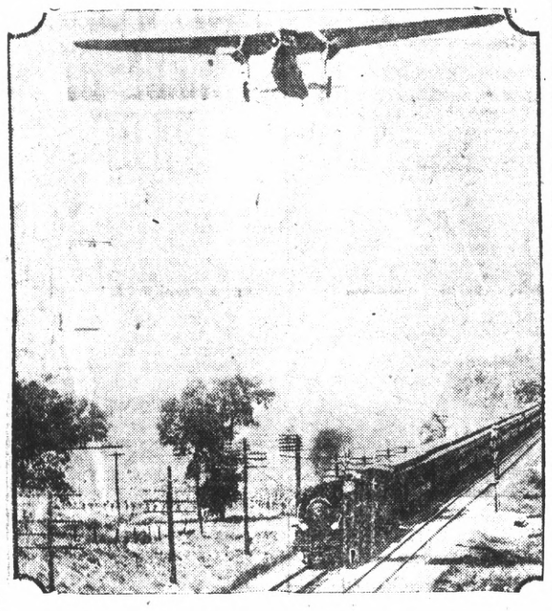

It was officially announced today that Albina Osipowich of Worchester, Mass. had set a new world record of two minutes, 41 3-5 seconds for the 220 yard free style in a race Thursday.

Lamp Cleaning Process Found

SCHENECTADY, Aug., 23 —UP—Discovery of a successful method for removing the blackening which gradually collects on the inside of incandescent lamp bulbs of the larger sizes has been made at the Nela Park development laboratory of the General Electric company at Cleveland. The effects of the new process will be felt first in the motion picture and aviation industries.

The plan as announced is simple. About a teaspoonful of coarse tungsten powder is placed inside the bulb before it is sealed. After the inside of the lamp has become black with use, one has merely to shake the lamp, which allows the metallic particles to "scour off" the blackening of the glass lamp bulb.

Ducks Take Fourth From Seal Nine

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—UP—Portland and Hollywood went into second place of the Pacific Coast league today, one game behind the Los Angeles Angels, leaders of the circuit, and half a game in front of the San Francisco Seals.

Portland scored its twelfth straight victory by beating the Seals in the fourth game of the week, 8 to 2. The Beavers scored five times in the fifth inning to break a two to two tie and shut out the Seals after the third inning.

Scoring three runs in the eighth inning after Oakland had taken the lead in the first half of that frame with three runs, Hollywood defeated the Oaks, 7 to 5.

Advantage of four errors by the Seattle Indians was taken by Los Angeles and the Angels won, 2 to 1.

The Missions trailed the Seals by less than a game because they beat Sacramento 5 to 1.

FONG WAN HERBS SPECIALLY COMPOUNDED RELIEVE MANY AILMENTS AT ONCE.

Richmond, Cal.
June 30, 1928.

For years I had terrible pains in my right side. I also had liver and gall bladder trouble, which caused the pain to run clear around my back. All the healers whom I consulted said that I could not be helped unless an operation was performed.

Being aware that many of my friends had been greatly benefited by the Fong Wan herbs, I began to take them. I drank the tea conscientiously for seven weeks, at the end of which time I felt that my relief was complete. Now I have the added satisfaction of knowing that it is also permanent, for a year has elapsed and I am still free from pain and feel splendid.

ZEE ZEE SHOW CLOSED BY OWNER

located for patrons to drop in between acts and after the show for refreshments.

Prior to the raid an undercover man purchased liquor at the cafe, police reports state.

Trail Of Tragedy

A long series of unsavory incidents has gone with the record breaking run of the show.

Miss Ellsworth, who plays the main role in the show was said to be a close friend of Jerry Ferri, beer baron and underworld character, when he was shot to death by thugs during a gang war.

Later Miss Ellsworth's friend Frank Grupico was arrested on statutory charges perferred by two women. After visiting Grupico in the San Francisco city prison, Miss Ellsworth collapsed and lay in a coma for two days. Physicans said she had taken an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Actress Lives Here

Miss Ellsworth, whose home is a 72 Terrace avenue, Richmond, told reporters that Grupico was her husband. Both Grupico and her mother denied it.

The latest tragedy associated with the play was the death of Chapman, son of a San Francisco attorney, who died Wednesday morning as the result of a fall from a six story apartment building of Allen A. Hoffman, playwright, following a party in which members of the "Zee Zee cast took part.

According to Hoffman's story of the tragedy, Chapman was hurled from the window by two unknown men, who came to his apartment looking for liquor.

Rescue Of Fox Brings Arrest

WEST PLAINS, Mo.—A thirty day's sentence was given the Rev. A. H. Sisney, aged minister near here, when he rescued four small fox pups from a dog and took them home. The court held that he took fur-bearing animals out of season. After five hours imprisonment the minister was released.

Fisherman Makes Record Cod Haul

PROVINCETOWN, Mass.—What was believed to be the biggest cod ever caught in Massachusetts waters was brought in by Captain George Brier of Truro recently. The giant weighed 100 pounds, measured four feet in circumference and had a mouth large enough to accommodate a board one foot long. Unfortunately the monster cod was too big to make good eating.

ZEPPELIN BATTLES STORMS FLYING OVER PACIFIC OCEAN

stop was made at Friederichshafen before Tokio was reached.

Passengers were understood to be eagerly awaiting the unusual crossing of the international date line. The line will probably be reached within 24 hours and the day that has been gained in the race against the sun will be lost in a moment.

Hits Storms

When the Graf Zeppelin was about 415 miles from Tokio the first storm was encountered and Dr. Eckener had to turn towards the southeast to escape high winds.

The water over which he was passing tonight was believed to be free from any major disturbances of the elements and even if he has to navigate around the Midway Islands storm he should not be bothered until Saturday afternoon. Radio messages from the dirigible indicated all had been well on board since the time it sailed.

The average speed was about the same as was maintained early in the flight from Friederichshafen to Tokio, when 6600 miles was covered in a little more than 101 hours.

ZEPPELIN BESET BY HEAVY GALES

TOKIO, Aug. 24—Saturday—UP—The Graf Zeppelin, rushing eastward across the Pacific ocean to America, was far at sea this morning and swinging slowly northward to regain the Great Circle course which it was forced to leave because of storm areas.

Dr. Hugo Eckener reported his position to the Otchishi radio station at 7 a. m. (5 p. m. EST) as 38.35 north, 159.20 east, more than 1100 miles from Tokio.

Dr. Hugo Eckener appeared to be maneuvering to escape storms in his path which radio messages placed at about 640 miles due east of Tokio at 1 a. m. (11 a. m. Friday EST) It was estimated that the dirigible was averaging about 70 to 75 miles an hour.

The Graf Zeppelin was following a Great Circle course from Kasumigaura air station, near here, to Los Angeles, when a storm area was struck forcing Dr. Eckener to change his route. It was expected that he would be able to swing back to the north later.

Moon Sighted

A message from the dirigible, received at 1 a. m said the moon had been sighted after several hours of stormy weather. The dirigible's position was given as 36 north, 151 east. A position given three hours earlier was 35.40 north, 147.40 east—about 225 miles nearer Tokio.

Earlier positions given by the dirigible as it proceeded on its 6118 miles flight to Los Angeles, showed it struck eastward from Tokio almost immediately after disappearing over the skyline, due to a low pressure area over Hokkaido island.

It passed eastward from Mito at 3:36 p. m. and was over the sea off Oginohama later, according to a message brought here by a carrier pigeon released from the Graf Zeppelin. The message was the first such ever carried and said the voyage was proceeding smoothly.

New Storm

Dispatches from the United States weather bureau had informed the dirigible of several disturbances in its path, especially over all latitudes west of the 180th meridian. The reports said a disturbance is moving northward over the middle latitudes of the western ocean area.

A new disturbance was reported developing over the Gulf of Alaska centering near Kodiak.

Another American dispatch said messages from the Graf Zeppelin had requested weather reports from ships near the 160th meridian.

Reach L. A. Soon

The Graf Zeppelin started the third stage of its voyage around the world when it left Kasumigaura naval air station Friday at 3:13 p. m. (1:13 a. m. EST) on the trip to Los Angeles. The dirigible already had travelled 11,000 miles on its flight here from Lakehurst, N. J., with a stop at Friedrichshafen, Germany.

Dr. Eckener said he hoped to reach Los Angeles by Tuesday if all goes well and will continue to Lakehurst after a few days halt.

NAVAL STATION TALKS TO ZEPPELIN

WASHINGTON, Aug 23.—UP—The navy's radio station at Cordova, Alaska, was in two-way communication with the Graf Zeppelin at 4:00 p. m. eastern standard time the navy department announced tonight.

Protect Your Furniture

A $1.25 to Rid Your Home of Moths May Save You Hundreds of Dollars.

MORTEMOTH KILLS MOTHS

The gas from Mortemoth crystals not only protects your furniture for a long time, but contact with it kills all moths, their eggs and their dangerous larvae in furniture which is already infested.

The proper method of using Mortemoth crystals is to tie them in small sacks, and to place these sacks down in the channel of the piece, as deeply as possible, behind the cushions, so that, upon expansion, the gas will spread and fill the spring units in the back and in the bottom of the piece.

When the sacks are empty, fill them again.

ANNE MAKES THREE SOLO FLIGHTS

HISKSVILLE, L. I. Aug. 23.—UP—There are two "Lone Eagles" in the Lindbergh family now. — Col. Charles A. and Anne.

Each can taxi a plane across a field, lift it smoothly into the air, set it down lightly and emerge from the cockpit smiling.

Charles A. demonstrated by his flight to Paris that he was an original "Lone Eagel" the former Anne Morrow proved her mettle as a flier's flying wife by making three solo flights today

Not so long ago the demure little Anne was writing subtle poems for the Students' paper at Smith college. While "Lindy" was flying the air mail and then spanning the Atlantic on a true course to Paris, her aerial jaunts were confined to Pegasus.

Anne Takes To Air

Then she met Lindbergh. They became engaged, while the colonel was announcing he expected, of course, to restrict his flying activities after their marriage, Anne wanted to take to the air.

She flew with him at Mexico City. When their plane lost a wheel and landed wrong side up, she wasn't flustered. She flew with Lindbergh again when he guided the plane with an injured arm.

More flights followed. The wedding day arrived.

As a bride, Anne Morrow accompanied her husband on an aerial tour across the continent and back.

Takes Lessons

Several days ago she began taking air lessons from her husband at the Aviation Country club here. She sat beside him in a plane and made him show her how all those funny gadgets on the instrument board worked. She learned the difference between a perfect three-point landing and a clumsy crack up.

Wednesday, after nine hours of intensive instruction, she handled the controls for the first time, with Charles A. at her side to prompt her in emergencies.

Fly Together

Today the Lindberghs motored to the club before breakfast. For an hour or so they flew together in a Fledgeling training plane, landing and taking off repeatedly. The plane had dual controls so that either could operate it.

Finally Lindbergh climbed out of the plane, spoke a few words to his wife, saw that her parachute was properly strapped and waved to her airily.

Perfect Landing

Anne Morrow taxied the ship across the field and took off neatly. She circled the field a few times, at an altitude of about 500 feet, avoiding two other planes in the air, and then landed.

Lindbergh walked over to the plane and apparently instructed her for the next flight. It, too, seemed perfect. Once more the colonel gave a suggestion, and his wife made her third solo trip.

Both were smiling by this time, and to celebrate her achievement, the proud husband climbed in with her and startled the Aviation Country club with a series of loops and whirls.

Wheat Bearing Fish Reported

PISKREL, Neb.—Nature's latest prank has been to develop a goldfish with several sprouts of wheat growing from its head.

When John Grotewald, near here, dipped a net into his cattle-tank in which he keeps a supply of goldfish, he noticed the freak. Roots to the extent of one and two inches long protruded from the throat and gills of the fish while the stalk and blades were growing out a short distance below the eye.

Thriving City Melts 'Away

RICE LAKE, Wis.— A single building now holds the memory of the once thriving sawmill city of Porterville, Wis., or Porter's Mills, as it was called. After the discontinuance of the sawmills 35 years ago, most of the residents moved to Stanley, Wis.
